Together with the following,

1) Piece of flat timber (approx 13.5x9cm) and on it is written, 'Dunbar/20th August 1857', this piece of timber has been used as the backing for a framed penned note that reads, 'This ?? (illegible) made ????? (illegible) of the Dunbar wreckage at Sydney Heads August 20th 1857. The right to collect the wreckage was bought by T.Milson of Milson's Point and Mr Spain who built a boat shed out-of a large portion of the wreck that drifted into Middle Harbour.' (signed, WE Thomson, SS Wyandra) and below this written, 'This piece was given to me by a son of Mr Spain, Sydney Oct-30 1912'.

2) The Wreck of the Dunbar, an Original Poem by the Late Mr. Samuel Bennett, matt framed under perspex (frame size 37x58.5cm), frame damaged around edges. This poem was written by Sydney journalist and historian Samuel Bennett and was printed for independent sale in about 1880.

3) A group of five spoons and another single spoon believed to be from the Dunbar.

4) Permit No. 100547 registered under the Australian Government Underwater Cultural Heritage Act 2018, which lists all artefacts and also has colour photos of all items.

5) Also included are items that were not on the Dunbar but were located in the vicinity of the wreckage, probably thrown into the ocean by well-wishers, these items are: a) Galatea Medal 1867 in white metal (C.1867/1); and b) USA silver dollar 1883S.

6) Wreck of the Dunbar, a 15 page booklet plus photographs and maps published in 1857.

7) The Wreck of the Dunbar, another 3 page booklet, no publication date, signed on front cover by Rev J. G. Rees.

8) Other research and photos.

Important Note: The Wood Dunbar Collection is recorded under Permit No. 100547 for Possession of Protected Underwater Cultural Heritage in accordance with Australian Government legislation. The conditions are:

(a) That this permit authorises the permit holder to be in possession, custody or control of the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1, providing possession has been lawfully obtained and is in accordance with the requirements of the Underwater Cultural Heritage Act 2018 and Underwater Cultural Heritage Rules 2018.

(b) That the permit holder may transfer by way of sale, exchange, gift, lease, loan hire or hire-purchase (the supply) the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1 to another person, providing the supply is in accordance with the conditions of this permit and all other requirements of the Underwater Cultural Heritage Act 2018 and Underwater Cultural Heritage Rules 2018.

(c) That this permit must accompany the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1.

(d) That the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1 is not removed from Australia and is not supplied to a person located outside Australian jurisdiction.

(e) That if a person advertises for sale (including for auction) the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1, the unique number of this permit must be included in the advertisement.

(f) That if the permit holder (the transferor) transfers this permit and the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1 to another person, the transferor must provide notification of this fact in the approved form within 14 days after the transfer.

(g) That if a person receives this permit (the transferee), the transferee must provide notification of their possession of the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1 in the approved form within 14 days after the transfer.

(h) That the permit holder must provide the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1 with appropriate storage, protection and conservation to ensure its continued preservation.

(i) That a copy of any existing notices issued under Section 39 of the Underwater Cultural Heritage Act 2018, requiring actions to be taken regarding the storage, handling, preservation or access to the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1, are forwarded to the person receiving possession.

(j) That this permit does not transfer or diminish any legal title, rights or privileges the Commonwealth of Australia has over the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1.

(k) That the underwater cultural heritage listed in schedule 1 must be maintained as a single collection and this collection may not be broken up or dispersed.

The Dunbar was a timber three-masted full-rigged ship built from British oak and East India teak with copper fastening throughout and was 61.5 metres long, 11 metres wide and 6.9 metres in depth. It was built by James Laing & Sons of Deptford Yard in Sunderland, England and was launched on 30 November 1854 for London shipowner, Duncan Dunbar to be used as a first class passenger and cargo carrier. It was initially used as a troop ship in the Crimean War and then reverted to a passenger and cargo vessel for travel to Australia, particularly as demand was high for travel to Australia due to the gold rush.

On the night of 20 August 1857 as the ship approached the entrance to Port Jackson from the south in heavy rain and a strong gale it appears that the ship's captain, James Green, believed he had already passed the headland or else mistakenly believed that a small break in the coastline known as The Gap was the entry to the port. Subsequently he steered the ship onto the rocks at South Head and it rapidly broke up with only one crewman, Able Seaman James Johnson, surviving from the 59 crew and 63 passengers on board. Wreckage and bodies filled the harbour. The remains of victims were recovered and a mass burial was held at St Stephens Cemetery in Newtown with several victims having individual monuments. Memorial services for the victims of the Dunbar sinking are held annually at St Stephens Church.

The sinking of the Dunbar ranks as one of Australia's worst maritime disasters. The location of the wreck beneath the South Head cliffs near the Signal Station is now a heritage site at Watson's Bay with a rock cut inscription on the flat sandstone cliff top above the actual wreck site together with a large iron anchor recovered from the wreck site in 1910.
