Mintage 360 only for each type. These Ireland pattern double florins were inspired by those of Reginald Huth, who instructed John Pinches to produce a small number of patterns to commemorate Queen Victoria's visit to Ireland in 1900. Huth/Pinches produced a version of Brock's 'old head' portrait of the Queen for the medallic coin's obverse and adopted a cruciform shield design reminiscent of the 1887 double florin for the reverse. The reverse of this 1901 dated pattern combines a crowned Irish harp design, found on the Irish coinage of George III and George IV, with a very detailed quatrefoil design featured on the British pattern florins of 1848. Total mintage 360 sets.

Arthur George Bagot, G.C., D.S.C. Lieut R.N.V.R.

D.S.C.: L.G. 19Jul1918 'Lieut Arthur Gerald Bagot, R.N.V.R., 2nd in command of H.M. Motor Launch 283. He Showed great coolness under fire. It was largely due to the magnificent manner in which the officers and men of Motor Launch 283 carried out their duties that so many officers and men of Brilliant and Sirius were rescued.'

A.M. (G.C.): L.G. 20Aug1918 'Arthur Gerald Bagot. Sub-Lt. D.S.C. Royal Navy (H.M.S.Lookout). Bronze. Sea 11Apr1918. He and another officer boarded the burning H.M.M.L. No.356 off Dover after an explosion and removed the depth charge before the flames reached it.'

Born on 26th April, 1888 in Adelaide, South Australia Arthur Bagot was one of four brothers to attend Geelong Grammar School, attending from August 1903 until 1907 after being at St Peter's Adelaide. At Geelong Grammar he was in both the 1st XI and the 1st XVIII for three years, a member of the 1st VIII in 1906 and champion athlete in 1905 and 1906. In 1907 he set a new record of 16.8 seconds for the hurdles in the United Public Schools' Sports. He was also a Sergeant in the Cadets, and a Prefect in 1907. After living with his family in Vancouver, he enlisted in 1916 to serve in the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve as an officer in the Motor Launch division of the Dover Patrol.

For his part in naval actions on the enemy held ports of Zeebrugge and Ostend he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and Mentioned in Despatches. On 20th August 1918 it was announced by the Admiralty that King George V had been graciously pleased to approve the award of the Albert Medal for Gallantry in Saving Life at Sea to Lieutenant-Commander Keith Robin Hoare, D.S.O., D.S.C., R.N.V.R., and Lieutenant Arthur Gerald Bagot, D.S.C., R.N.V.R., the account of their services reading as follows 'On the 12th April 1918, an explosion took place in the engine-room of H.M.Motor Launch 356, and the forward tanks burst into flame. The Officer and some of the crew were blown overboard by the explosion, and the remainder were quickly driven aft by flames, and were taken off in a skiff. By this time the flames were issuing from the cabin hatch aft, and there was much petrol burning on the surface of the water. It was then realised by the crews of adjacent vessels that the aft petrol tanks and the depth charge were being attacked by the fire, and might explode at any moment. At the moment when others were running away, Lieutenant Hoare and Sub-Lieutenant Bagot jumped into their dinghy, rowed to the wreck, got on board, and removed the depth charge, thereby preventing an explosion which might have caused serious loss of life amongst the crowd of English and French sailors on the quay'.

The decision of the United Kingdom Government in 1971, approved by the Queen, that surviving holders of the Albert and Edward Medals would be required to exchange their awards for the George Cross, by then more widely recognised than its predecessors as an award for gallantry second only to the Victoria Cross, if not equivalent to it. Normally the surrendered medal was to remain in safe custody with the Home Office on behalf of the Crown, but arrangements were possible whereby it could be presented, on behalf of the person to whom it was awarded, to a museum or other suitable body of his choice if he specifically requested this. Mr Bagot expressed the wish that his Albert Medal should be presented to Geelong Grammar School, and the Home Secretary accordingly presented it to the school on his behalf. After being demobilised, Arthur Bagot returned to Canada for several years and then to his birthplace of South Australia. In 1925 he took up a mixed-farming property near Piawaning in Western Australia, where he remained until he retired in 1962 to live in Perth. He died there on 29th November 1979.

With Bagot's silver ID wrist band he wore wearing during the Zeebrugge/Ostend operation, a folder containing original documentation, photographs, his Navy Officers sword, an M.I.D. Certificate to Capt J.F.Bagot 13th Light Horse Regt (brother) and a belt. The documentation shows he was related to Capt Lane Hawker a VC winner with the RFC, also his older brother served in the Boer War, and as an Officer in the Canadian Army in WWI, whilst his younger brother was an officer in the 13th LHR A.I.F.(M.I.D.)

GC: L.G. 30Apr1946 'On the 8th May, 1945, divers searching Uebersee Hafen reported the presence of a mine which from their description appeared to be an entirely new type. Lieutenant Gosse immediately dived and verified the fact that it was a GD pressure type which was commonly known as an Oyster. As it was very necessary that this type of mine should be recovered intact it was decided to attempt to render safe the mine underwater and on the following day May 8th (sic), Lieutenant Gosse dived on it again. Using improvised tools he eventually succeeded in removing the primer which was followed by a loud metallic crash. The mine was eventually lifted on the quayside when it was found that the detonator had fired immediately the primer had been removed. During the subsequent ten days Lieutenant Gosse rendered safe two similar types of mines which were lying in close proximity to shipping and in each instance the detonator fired before the mine reached the surface. This form of operation called for exceptionally high standard of personal courage and also a high degree of skill. The conditions were always arduous and were combined with the presence of known mines in the docks and with all forms of underwater obstruction-human corpses-which together with lack of visibility produced a set of conditions which would deter the boldest. This officer displayed courage and zeal far in excess of the usual course of duty and contributed greatly to the success of a most difficult and important operation.'

George Gosse (1912-1965) was born on 16th February 1912 at Harvey, Western Australia. He was educated at St. Peter's College, Adelaide, South Australia and in January 1926 he entered the Royal Australian Naval College as a thirteen year-old Cadet Midshipman. After graduating to Midshipman in May 1930, he went to sea for eighteen months with the Australian squadron. This was followed by a further eighteen months with the Royal Navy in the Mediterranean Fleet aboard Ramillies, Glorious and Worcester. In September 1932, Gosse was promoted to acting sub-Lieutenant after passing the seamanship exam. However, he later failed the final exam and returned to Australia in 1933.

On 1 September 1939, the day of Germany's invasion of Poland, Gosse applied to offer his services once again to the Navy. Although this and several further offers were declined, Gosse was selected for service as Ordinary Seaman in October 1940. Entering the Royal Australian Navy Volunteer Reserves, he served in Calcutta as Bomb Disposal Officer from October 1941 to June 1943. During this period his reporting officer, Capt Sanderson, commented on Gosse as 'a daring character with good knowledge of mines... always cheerful and gets along well with the men'. His next field of service was as a mine disposal diver operating in captured European ports. It appears Gosse had found his calling; in contrast to his commanding officer reports of his earlier naval service, which were predominately average, his classification as officer for the period 27th Oct 1944 to 30th June 1945 was 'exceptionally outstanding'. During this period he was attached to HMS Vernon and performed the action for which he was later awarded the George Cross. He died 31 December 1965.

With Journal [for the use of Midshipmen], a detailed account of service 1930-32 including many personal sketches and diagrams (178 pages); photographic album illustrating service during Second World War, including classified photographs (130 photographs); service records 1930-1945 (32 pages).

Bruce Victor Tipping. Flight Lieutenant 035364 (401329). Enl.01Feb1941 Dis.09Feb1946.

M.B.E.: L.G. 01Jan1967 'Flight Lieutenant Tipping joined the Royal Australian Air Force in February 1941 after serving with the Australian Military Forces from January 1939. During World War II he flew on air operations in the United Kingdom, Middle East and Pacific as wireless operator. He was discharged from the R.A.A.F. in 1946 and re-enlisted in April 1951. During the Malayan Emergency, he completed a tour of operations in No.1 (B) Squadron as signaller and in 1954 transferred to the Administrative Branch. He subsequently changed to the Equipment Branch in 1964. Flight Lieutenant Tipping was posted to R.A.A.F. Transport Flight, Vietnam in July 1965. He carried out his appointments of Administrative officer, Defence Officer, Accounting Officer and Equipment Officer with outstanding ability and his devotion to duty enabled him to discharge his responsibilities in a generally thankless and uninteresting post, with the utmost efficiency. In recognition of his valuable service'.

Ernst Thomson Cappi. F/O R.A.A.F. Enl.12Sep1941 Dis.22Feb1946.

DFC.: C.G. 15Oct1943 for 'Flying Officer Cappi has completed a number of successful bombing raids. His first two flights were attacks on Berlin, during which he was able to demonstrate his efficiency and accuracy as navigator. On a number of sorties against the Ruhr area he has continued to display confident disregard of danger. This Officer's crew have obtained many fine photographs of target areas.'

Extract from Assumption College Annual, 1943 'Boys who were at Assumption in 1927-1930 will be pleased to learn Ernie Cappi has been singled out for special mention and has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. He left the service of the Commonwealth Wool and Produce Company in May, 1941 and went into training camp at Victor Harbour, South Australia. After completing the course there, further training courses were taken at Mt Gambier, Port Pirie and Nhill from which he emerged with a commission. With a group of men who had done the same course, he left for England in August, 1942. After further training there he was posted to the Lancaster Bombing Squadron and was engaged in operational flights over France, Germany and Italy, from all of which he returned without a scratch. Said one daily paper: 'Probably the most dramatic night was spent by the crew of a Lancaster, piloted by E.T.Cappi, that did not reach the continent. The plane quickly became coated with ice and the pilot could not maintain altitude. Because of this, the bombs were dropped in the sea and the pilot turned for home. But the planes radio 'packed up' and so did the navigator, Pilot Officer Cappi. 'We brought Cappi round' said a Flt-Sgt. 'but lack of oxygen has the same effect as too much alcohol, and he didn't care whether he got back or not until we put in a lot of work on him. There we were flying around in the rain and thick cloud without the faintest idea of where we were. And the temperature was 30 below freezing point. At last we saw searchlights poke into the clouds. We had been up about seven hours and didn't know whether we were over Poland or Ireland. Our radio could send a message about a mile, so we came down to about three quarters of a mile above ground, hoped for the best and tapped out a message. Fortunatley the searchlight was near a drome, so we made out O.K.' Congratulations, Ernie on your decoration. May good luck and good judgement be yours to the end of your dangerous work'.

NEW ZEALAND

A SELECTION OF MEDALS FROM THE A.G.BAIRSTOW COLLECTION

Including a number to Australians and of Australian interest.

Aubrey Bairstow began collecting medals as a ten year old schoolboy in Auckland in 1982. In 1994 he decided to specialise in medals awarded for the New Zealand Maori Wars and has since amassed an unrivalled and comprehensive collection of these medals.

The Maori Wars. Despite the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi between the British Crown and the Maori tribes, clashes between British troops and New Zealand irregular forces against the Maoris occurred from 1840, when official European settlement began and large tracts of land were purchased by the New Zealand government. These clashes had abated by 1846 in the North Island and by 1847 in the South Island.

Growing opposition by the Maoris to this land purchase was one of the underlying causes of the war although Maori suspicion of land policies was gradually transferred to suspicion of the government's native policies.

Land disputes came to a head at Waitara in Taranaki province in 1859 and fighting broke out in 1860 in the Taranaki war. The situation further north around the Waikato area in Auckland province worsened, resulting in the outbreak of the Waikato War in 1863.

New Zealand Medal, undated. Col Sergt G Bentley Taranaki M S. Engraved. Good fine.

$1,850

Ex Horne Collection (Christchurch) 2000.

George Bentley was born in Herefordshire, England in 1826. He enlisted in No.5 Company of the Taranaki Military Settlers in Melbourne and arrived in New Zealand aboard Brilliant from Melbourne. He was an engineer by occupation. The Taranaki Military Settlers were generally men who enlisted in Australia with the promise of land grants in exchange for military service. Bentley, as part of the Melbourne Contingent of the Taranaki Military Settlers, took part in the engagement at Kaitake Ranges on 24 March 1864. Colour Sergeant Bentley was also engaged at Te Ahuahu on 6 April 1864. The Maori, occupying an old Pa Ahuahu slipped down to the party of 55 men from the 57th Regiment and 43 men of the Taranaki Military Settlers. A smaller body of men was then separated and attacked at very close range by the Maori who 'sprang their ambush with a full volley of gunfire...[and] leapt from their trenches and dashed into the mass of struggling soldiers with their tomahawks. Only the confusion of men dashing in all directions, and clouds of dirty white gun smoke in the high fern, saved the party from being completely slaughtered'.

As a Colour Sergeant and thus the senior Non Commissioned Officer Bentley was a prime target for the Maori and was wounded in this battle, in which his commanding officer, Captain Lloyd, was decapitated and whose severed head was carried around the North Island by the Maori as a war trophy. He was awarded an undated New Zealand Medal on 10 April 1872, one of 214 to the Taranaki Military Settlers. With service record and 'For Glory and a Farm' in which Bentley is mentioned.

New Zealand Medal, undated. J. McKenna No.4 Co. Tar. Mil. Settlers. Engraved. Officially renamed, very fine.

$1,200

James McKenna was born in Monaghan in 1837. He enlisted in the Taranaki Military Settlers in Melbourne, Australia and arrived in New Zealand aboard the ship Choice. He served at Kaitake Ranges on 24 March 1864 and later took part in the engagement at Te Ahuahu on 6 April 1864 where he was one of five men of the Melbourne Contingent who were wounded. His wound comprised a rifle ball in the left side, while his commanding officer (Captain Lloyd of the 57th Regiment) was killed. 43 men of the Taranaki Military Settlers took part in the engagement. This was the first Hau Hau action and the mutilation of the dead and wounded was horrific. Cannibalistic rites were performed by the Hau Hau Maori.

Private McKenna was later involved in outpost duty and again came under fire. He took his discharge from the Taranaki Military Settlers in April 1865, presumably having served the one year required before joining the Taranaki Cavalry Volunteers. In 1882 McKenna, by now having settled on his farm land grant, was presented with his New Zealand Medal by Premier Sir Harry Atkinson. In 1897 McKenna sold his grant and his war pension and settled in South Africa where he sought his fortune on the gold fields. He caught malaria and was hospitalized in the Bulawayo Field Hospital. In his absence natives looted his camp and stole all his possessions including his New Zealand Medal and discharge papers. Perhaps to earn a fare back to New Zealand McKenna served as a mercenary during the Boer War, following which he returned to New Zealand. At some stage upon his return to New Zealand McKenna resided in Wellington. In 1912 McKenna applied for a replacement New Zealand Medal in order to obtain a Military Pension. The medal was duly issued to McKenna, who was in very poor health. McKenna was admitted to the O'Connor Memorial Institute Home at Westport where he died a pauper in September or October 1919. He was buried in a pauper's grave and despite efforts by the Home he was not accorded a military funeral.

The New Zealand Medal is the replacement issued to McKenna in 1912 after the theft of his original medal in South Africa. There were 214 New Zealand War Medals awarded to the Taranaki Military Settlers.

With application papers. Mentioned in For Glory and a Farm. Part of the Melbourne Contingent.

Ex Webb's Auctions (Auckland) 1994, McDonald Collection Napier 1995, Edge Collection 1996.

William Sellar Day arrived in Auckland from Australia on 9 February 1863. He settled in the central waterfront village of Parnell and joined the Rifle Volunteers (Parnell Company, Auckland Rifle Volunteers). The commanding officer was Captain Charles Heaphy who became the only Colonial of the New Zealand Wars to be awarded the Victoria Cross. Private Day later transferred to the nearby No.3 Rutland Company of the Auckland Rifle Volunteers. As well as being under fire at Wairoa, Private Day was also engaged in blockhouse duties throughout Auckland. He served in the Waikato campaign (in and around Auckland and the upper Waikato) for about two years. After much correspondence with the Department of Defence he was awarded his New Zealand Medal on 22 March 1913, whilst living in Otahuhu. He applied for the medal twice before it was issued. His character reference in support of his medal application was provided by Charles Hesketh, his former commanding officer.

108 New Zealand Medals were presented to Auckland Rifle Volunteers.

Ex Longley Collection (Auckland) 1997.

Joseph William Day was born in Melbourne, Australia in 1849. He served in 7 Division of the Armed Constabulary for 9 months, taking part in the battle at Ngatapa (December 1868) in the Poverty Bay. It was here that his commanding officer, Captain Brown, was killed. Day took his discharge shortly thereafter and later settled in Christchurch. His application for the New Zealand Medal (one of 478 awarded to the Armed Constabulary) was supported by comments from George Packe, commander of the Canterbury District. Joseph Day had continued service in the New Zealand Police (134 J W Day Acting 3rd Class Sergt). He was one of the first recipients of the Police Long Service Medal (in a private NZ Collection) and was awarded bars for 22, 30 and 38 years service. The last bar may have been awarded as late as 1919. Joseph Day appears to have later returned to the Taranaki region as he was a resident when his name appeared on Lord Ranfurly's Roll of Defenders of The Empire (1902).

21148 Sgt Earle Manville Day served in J Company of the 21st Reinforcements to the New Zealand Expeditionary Force. He was born on 24 April 1893 and lived with his mother in Guyton Street, Wanganui. He served in France from 1917 to 1918 and was wounded on 14 September 1918. Upon his discharge Day joined the RSA. Earle Manville Day died at Rotorua on 8 June 1953.

New Zealand Medal, date removed. Patrick Martin No 3 Company 1st Waikato Reg. Impressed. Polished, very fine.

$1,000

Officially renamed as all post-1895 issues to Colonials should be as unclaimed stock of pre-impressed medals was expended.

Patrick Martin arrived in Auckland Province in 1857. He established a small farm near Hunua, south of Auckland. On 4 July 1863 he enlisted as a Private in 3 Company of the 1st Regiment of Waikato Militia at Otahuhu Camp. This was 'Pitt's Militia' and was the first enlistment of this newly formed regiment. He was in action a short time later at Kirikiri on 22 July 1863. (This site is a short distance from present day Papakura and close to Martin's own farm.) As one of the settlers who had remained on his holding bordering the Hunua Forest he was alerted to the sound of gunfire coming from the property of a neighbour - Mr Hay. One of Mr Hay's workers had been killed by Kingite Maoris and the farm was surrounded by their warriors. Hay was on the roof attempting to protect the three women in the dwelling and it appears Martin and his fellow militiamen arrived with little time to spare. The Maori were engaged at the edge of the bush and were eventually driven to the hills. Imperial reinforcements in the form of a detachment of men of the 18th Royal Irish Regiment arrived from the nearby newly constructed Ring's Redoubt and for much of the evening the Imperials and Colonials engaged small Maori raiding and scouting parties. The following morning a detachment of men from the 65th Regiment arrived and at that stage the Maori were overwhelmed and fled. This was the first engagement of the Colonial Militia (during the Waikato Wars) and the relatively small number of men involved behaved with skill and courage in the conflict. Private Martin later suffered a broken collar bone as a result of being kicked by a horse. His injuries were such that he was no longer able to undertake heavy work. He therefore transferred to the Imperial Commissariat Corps with whom he was employed as a bullock driver. He was subsequently in action at Shepherd's Bush (Ramarama) in the vicinity of Williamson's Clearing (now Bombay). He took his discharge in early 1866 and remained in Hunua. He applied for his New Zealand Medal in order to receive a pension and received the medal on 18 May 1914. Patrick Martin died at Runciman on 25 October 1932 aged 90. The death notice in the New Zealand Herald on 26 October 1932 stated: 'On October 25 at Runciman, Patrick, beloved husband of Charlotte Martin, aged 90 years. Funeral leaves his late residence at 2:30pm tomorrow (Thursday) for Presbyterian Cemetery, Drury.'

Ex Gould Collection (Te Awamutu) 2003.

William Alderson was born in Sheffield, Yorkshire in 1842. He enlisted in the 2nd Regiment of Waikato Militia at Otahuhu on 31 December 1863. Private Alderson served with No.7 Company under Captain Peacock. On the eve of the attack on Orakau Pa he volunteered for the expedition and was attached to No.9 Company under Captain Pickering. The company marched at night from Te Awamutu through Kihikihi to Orakau. Alderson took part in the engagement at Orakau from 31 March to 2 April 1864 where he sustained a serious head injury. Alderson was subsequently granted a Military Land Grant and settled at Tuhikamea near Kihikihi/Hairini and not far from Orakau. He became active in local affairs and held sponsor construction of the local school where his children attended. He applied for his New Zealand Medal in April 1911 and after an investigation by Captain Northcroft was awarded his New Zealand Medal on 17 October 1911. William Alderson died at Hairini on 13 March 1915.

William Alexander Ford was born in Kingston, Jamaica in 1841. His race is unknown although it is probably he was a white "planter". He probably travelled to New Zealand to prospect for gold as his place of enlistment in the 2nd Waikato Militia was at the Otago Goldfields on 18 September 1863. He may well have had previous military service due to the non-commissioned officer rank he was assigned.

Lance Sergeant William Ford was under fire at Orakau on 31 March and 1-2 April 1864. He took his discharge in Auckland on 1 February 1866 (despite medal application papers stating contrary; that he served until September 1865). After his discharge he moved to Oamuru in the South Island and served in the Otago Rifle Volunteers. It was here in 1871 that his New Zealand Medal with undated reverse was delivered (care of Captain Stewart, No 8 Company). Ford's application papers for his New Zealand Medal are verified by Thomas Haultain (formerly Captain of the 2nd Waikato Militia and later the Minister of Defence). Ford later moved to Auckland where he settled. His name appears on Ranfurly's Roll of Defenders of the Empire (1902) and confirms his place of residence as Auckland. He was awarded an undated medal and died at Ranfurly War Veteran's Home, Mount Eden on 11 October 1922 aged 80.

This medal was never applied for and was sold by the New Zealand Defence Department in the 1970s. In accordance with regulations the naming was partly obscured by 'X' markings. Phillip Cahill enlisted in the 3rd Waikato Regiment in Melbourne on 4 September 1863. It is likely he was tempted with offers of land grants and pensions. He saw service in the Waikato Campaign in both the 3rd Waikato Regiment and the Imperial Commissariat Corps and participated in the engagement at Orakau from 31 March to 2 April 1864. Cahill returned to Australia on 29 August 1864.

New Zealand Medal, undated. Capt Alfred W East 4th Regt W M. Engraved in style of men discharged in Australia.

$3,500

Ex Private Collector (USA) 1997.

There were 19 medals to the 4th Waikato Militia. To date, this is the only one known. With application papers and an ex libris copy of Armed Settlers in which he is detailed and Photographed.

William East was commissioned as a Captain in the 4th Waikato Militia at Sydney, Australia on 21 January 1864. He served as the Adjutant of the Regiment and came to New Zealand ex Melbourne on the ship Thomas Fletcher which departed on 3 February 1864. East was the most senior officer on board. The men on ship were military settlers and their families who had been offered grants of land for military service. Captain East was initially based at Regiment Headquarters in Onehunga and was later posted to Hamilton - where he became a founder of East Street, which was named after him. East's belongings fell into the Waikato River at the Hamilton wharf while being unloaded so for a period he was without any effects. Captain East was Adjutant to the 4th Waikato Regiment commanded by Colonel Moule. On one occasion he had a disagreement with Moule, who suggested he was feigning illness to avoid Church Parade. East suggested that if Moule was sure of his facts that he court-martial him however the matter was resolved by Headquarters. When Colonel Moule was made Commandant of all Waikato Regiments, Captain East assumed command of the 4th Waikato Regiment. The 4th Waikato Regiment served in the Wanganui Campaign from 1865 to 1866. It is not known where East saw action in order to qualify for his New Zealand Medal.

The medal may have been awarded for Commissariat service however East does not appear on the roll of those Colonial officers who were attached to the Imperial Commissariat Corps. Captain East distinguished himself in local politics, farming and served as the area Magistrate and Justice of the Peace. His military land grant saw that he had a massive land holding in Hamilton and his farm was considered to be one of the most advanced in the area. In the early to mid 1870s Captain East moved back to Sydney. He was resident there when he applied for his New Zealand Medal in 1879. On 4 January 1879 he wrote to the New Zealand Defence Headquarters advising that he had fallen ill and had had to spend 6 months in the country 300 miles north of Sydney to recover from 'brain fever'. He goes on to state that whilst there he met a former Sergeant of the 4th Waikato Regiment who advised him of his medal entitlement. His medal was later sent to him care of a Pitt Street, Sydney address.

George O'Connell was born in Limerick in 1838. He served as a Lieutenant in the Royal Navy before coming to New Zealand although it is not known whether he was in the Baltic, Crimea or China campaigns whilst in the service of the Navy or whether he had no previous campaign service prior to New Zealand. He arrived in New Zealand aboard the ship Star of India, which arrived at Auckland ex Melbourne in September 1863. He was commissioned as an Ensign in the 1st Regiment Waikato Militia, with whom he served from 19 February 1864 to 12 April 1864. It is not known if he saw action with this unit as the regiment was in action at Orakau during the period and it is possible he was too.

O'Connell settled in the New Plymouth area following discharge and enlisted as a Sergeant in the Armed Constabulary on 10 December 1868 and served with the 7th Division until 25 February 1869. In his application papers for his New Zealand Medal he states he served for one year, so it is possible that he was transferred to another Division. While serving as a Sergeant in the 7th Division of the Armed Constabulary he saw action at Nukumarū (Tauranga Ika) on 2 February 1869. The New Zealand Medal claimed by O'Connell was gazetted in 1871 and receipted by him on 13 December 1873. The medal is named to O'Connell as Captain in the Armed Constabulary, which is puzzling. The rank on the medal has, under very close examinations, indications of being corrected from that of Sergeant. His name appears on the New Zealand Medal roll as being entitled to the medal named as a Sergeant yet the rank of Captain is in the correct style and has been engraved by the same hand that named the rest of the medal. The rank of Captain was a Militia rank and not one used by the Armed Constabulary. This medal surfaced via the descendants of the recipient in the Christchurch area. It appears the rank on the medal has been officially corrected from Sergeant to Captain, however it has not been established in which regiment O'Connell attained the rank of Captain.

With research. Rank officially and contemporarily corrected.

De Neufville Lucas was commissioned as an Ensign in the 40th Regiment of Foot on 17 August 1855. His service record has not survived however it is known that he was sent to Australia shortly thereafter.

On 31 October 1856 the Governor General held his half yearly review of the 40th Regiment at the Princes Barracks in Melbourne. Following the inspection the officers returned to their barracks. Between Noon and 1pm Ensign Pennefather rushed from his room with a revolver and shot the first officer he encountered - Ensign Russell Veith. Veith was shot through the cheek and the bullet exited his neck. Pennefather then proceeded towards the Surgeon of the Regiment, Doctor M'Cauley who was invalided as a result of a fall a few weeks prior. Doctor M'Cauley was seated in a lawn chair with his crutch beside him. Pennefather placed his pistol in the mouth of Doctor M'Cauley and shot him. He then searched for another target and sighted Ensign Lucas. Lucas ran towards Pennefather and attempted to disarm him. During the struggle Lucas was shot in the face (jaw). Pennefather then shot himself in the temple, committing suicide. As a result of the incident, Ensign Veith was seriously wounded. Doctor M'Cauley was killed and Ensign Lucas was severely wounded.

Lucas was commissioned as Lieutenant on 28 October 1859. He married Catherine Holroyd at Trinity Church, Adelaide, South Australia on 8 June 1860. The military marriage certificate states his age as 29 years, suggesting he was born about 1831. Lieutenant Lucas then served in New Zealand from c. 1860 to 1866. His exact dates and details of service are not recorded. It is presumed that Lieutenant Lucas was in action at Rangiriri, Waiari and Orakau and it is likely that he also took part in the earlier Taranaki campaigns. The New Zealand Medal Roll (WO100/18) notes that by the time of the issue of the New Zealand War Medal in 1869 Lieutenant Lucas had resigned by sale of his commission. As his wife was Australian it is very likely that Lucas took his discharge in Australia while the 40th Regiment was returning to England. He was awarded an undated New Zealand Medal, being customary to men no longer serving the Regiment with whom they had won the medal.

Twenty-two DCMs were awarded for the New Zealand Wars. Four are privately held and only seven are known.

Benjamin Thomas was born in Leominster, England in March 1836. He enlisted in the 65th Regiment of Foot at Parkhurst on 31 October 1854, stating his occupation as Labourer and age at 18 years, 7 months. He embarked for New Zealand from Portsmouth on the Euphrates on 26 December 1854 and arrived in Auckland on 26 April 1855. Private Thomas' detachment was immediately posted to disturbances in the Taranaki region. They served at Waireka in March 1860 and returned to Auckland in 1863. Later that year a detachment of the 65th Regiment (including Private Thomas) sent to man Alexandra Redoubt, overlooking the Waikato River near Tuakau, South of Auckland. From here they took part in a number of engagements and small skirmishes in the surrounding bush against hostile Maori who had been attacking supply lines and local settlers. On 7 September 1863, in response to a request for assistance, a party of 50 soldiers from the 65th Regiment of Foot led by Captains Swift and Butler set forth from Alexandra Redoubt to Camerontown, 8 miles distant. After some time the troops encountered a raiding party of 300 hostile Maori who had been attacking the Commissariat depot at Camerontown. The Maori were positioned in large trees and dense bush on either side of the path to be used by the soldiers. A horrific volley of fire ensued and both officers in the detachment fell seriously wounded. Colour Sergeant McKenna assumed command of the party and charged the Maori who had temporarily retreated into the bush. Four Privates (including Private Thomas) under the command of Lance Corporal Ryan remained with the two wounded officers whilst McKenna and the balance of the Imperials pursued the Maoris through the bush. As night set in Captain Swift died and Corporal Ryan and two Privates (Cole and Talbot) returned to Alexandra Redoubt. The Maoris had doubled back around the party led by McKenna and were now scouring the bush for the two officers and those that had remained with them, necessitating the men to constantly find new cover. Privates Thomas and Bulford remained with Lieutenant Butler and, as Lieutenant Butler complained bitterly of the cold, Private Thomas removed his wool short and greatcoat and covered Lieutenant Butler with them. Eventually Thomas and Bulford decided to carry Lieutenant Butler to Alexandra Redoubt. They made their way through the dense bush and arrived near the Redoubt at sunrise the next morning. Lieutenant Butler subsequently recovered from his wounds.

Private Thomas later served in the engagement at Rangiriri in November 1863 before the Regiment was posted to Te Awamutu in 1864. It was here on 18 June 1864 that he was presented with his Distinguished Conduct Medal by Lieutenant General Sir Duncan Cameron in respect of his bravery at Camerontown on 7 to 8 September 1863. McKenna and Ryan were awarded the Victoria Cross and 5 DCMs were awarded. Private Thomas took his discharge with gratuity at Otahuhu Camp, Auckland on 31 August 1865. He appears to have joined the Waikato Militia and subsequently the Forest Rangers (as had his colleague Col Sgt McKenna VC). Benjamin Thomas was given a Military Land Grant and died in Auckland on 14 January 1896. He was awarded a medal dated 1861-66 named to him in the 65th Regiment but in a Colonial style engraving. This is the only example of this date to the Regiment. The Maori War Medal is renamed in a contemporary style. It is surmised that the medal was issued to him impressed for Waikato Militia service and that he then had it renamed at the time to reflect his more gallant 65th Regiment service.

New Zealand Medal 1866. 517 Frank Harrow 1st Bn 12th Regt. Impressed. Very fine.

$1,300

Frank Harrow was born in Paddington, London (c.1835). He enlisted in the 12th Regiment of Foot at Rochester, Kent on 27 April 1860. His military service was chequered with charges of drunkenness and bad conduct, including 'Sneaking out' and desertion. He was court martialled three times and his name appears in the regimental defaulters book twelve times. In September 1863 Private Harrow set sail for Sydney, Australia, where he served until sent to New Zealand in 1865. His service was confined to the East Coast of New Zealand in and around Tauranga, Napier and Opotiki. On one occasion he deserted from 16 October 1866 to 12 November 1866. He was imprisoned for almost four months for this offence. He sailed for England with his regiment in May 1867 and reached landfall at Plymouth on 28 August 1867. Private Harrow re-engaged at Devonport, England on 12 March 1869. Harrow's regiment arrived in India on 24 October 1876 and were mainly based at Umbeyla (Umballa). He was discharged on 14 June 1881 at age 46 years and 4 months. He had served a total of 20 years and 122 days in the regiment. His discharge was as a result of "general disability" which was brought about by his long service. He was noted as being unfit for further service. His overseas service included Australian Colonies and New Zealand, 4 years and 75 days, and East Indies, 4 years and 171 days. His poor conduct resulted in his New Zealand Medal being his only award.

New Zealand Medal 1866. Sergt Edward Byrne (sic) 2nd Bn 14th Regt. Impressed. Very fine.

$2,000

Ex Glendings (London) 23 September 1958, Corbett Collection (Auckland) 1993, McDonald (Napier) May 1997.

Edward Byrne was born at Imonck, Hacketstown, County Carlon (c.1839). He enlisted as a Private (No.948) in 2nd Battalion, 14th Regiment at Dublin on 15 December 1858. He was promoted to Corporal on 30 August 1860 however was stripped of this rank during the first of his three court martials. Byrne served 6 years and 1 month in New Zealand and spent considerable periods of his service imprisoned by order of his Commanding Officer. From 5 September 1865 until the departure of the regiment in late 1866 his service appears improved. This would account for his award of a unique 1866 dated New Zealand Medal as he was only available for service when not imprisoned; namely from late-1865. Edward Byrne re-engaged at Melbourne on 13 December 1867. He was promoted to Corporal on 17 September 1869 and to Sergeant on 1 March 1871. However his conduct remained poor and he was demoted to the ranks as a result of being drunk on 16 September 1876. He obtained his discharge on 13 December 1876. At the time of his discharge Byrne had served a total of 17 years and 287 days, which included overseas service of 9 years and 9 months. He served 6 years and 1 month in New Zealand and 3 years and 8 months in Australia. Sergeant Byrne was awarded a medal dated "1866". This is unique to the 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment. His name appears as Bryne on the medal. Byrne was tried by court martial three times and his name appears in the regimental defaulters book thirteen times. Only one medal of this date issued this regiment.

New Zealand War Medal 1861-1866. 1121 John Simonite, 2nd Bn 14th Regt. Impressed. Very fine.

$1,250

John Simonite was born in Sheffield, York(c.1833). He enlisted in the 3rd West York Regiment of Militia on 2 September 1854. Simonite transferred from the Militia to the 2nd Battalion of the 14th Regiment on 2 March 1859. He was promoted to Corporal on 16 March 1859. However, his conduct shortly thereafter saw him demoted to Private and imprisoned for a short period. Service during this period was in Dublin and the Irish counties. On 1 November 1859 he was restored to the rank of Corporal and on 4 May 1861 promoted to Sergeant. Simonite formed part of the first contingent of men of the 14th Regiment posted to New Zealand. He served in New Zealand from January 1861 to September/October 1866. He participated in numerous actions including those at Waitara Block, Papanui, Rangiriri, Okotuku, Te Putahi, Otapawa and Waikoko. He held various ranks in New Zealand including that of Sergeant however he was demoted to Private on 18 September 1863 for an offence which also saw him confined for a short period. From November 1866 he was based at Adelaide, South Australia. Private Simonite re-engaged at Hobart Town, Australia on 28 October 1867. Simonite transferred to the 2nd Battalion 18th Regiment of Foot (The Royal Irish Regiment) on 13 March 1870, seemingly while still in Australia.

Simonite returned to England with the 2nd Battalion 18th Royal Irish Regiment in 1871 and was based at Devonport, Gosport and at Aldershot. His service was not exemplary and he never retained his earlier ranks. Simonite and his regiment were sent to India, where they landed on 14 November 1874. Private Simonite served with the regiment until his discharge on 11 February 1879. His service of 21 years and 90 days included 14 years and 8 months overseas. His service in New Zealand totalled 5 years and 319 days, Australia 3 years and 309 days and India 4 years and 25 days. At time of discharge he was aged 45 years and 11 months. He was awarded a medal dated 1861-66, the main issue for the 14th Regiment. This New Zealand Medal was the only medal awarded to Simonite during his service. Simonite was court martialled twice and his name appeared in the defaulters book 8 times.

New Zealand Medal 1861-1866. 383 George Washington
 2nd Bn 14th Regt. Impressed. Very fine.

$3,000

MID. London Gazette: 'Conspicuous for his coolness and bravery in the attack on the enemy's stronghold at Rangiriri, New Zealand on the 20th November 1863.'

George William Washington was born in Dublin, Ireland in 1838. He enlisted in the 2nd Battalion 14th Regiment on 1 June 1858 - originally for a period of ten years. He was sent to New Zealand in November 1860 and was under fire at Rangiriri in the Waikato on 20 November 1863. He was mentioned in dispatches for gallantry at this action. Private Washington was promoted to Corporal on 1 November 1863. He deserted his regiment on 10 June 1864 and was not recovered until 23 November 1865. His whereabouts during this period are unknown. He was imprisoned until his trial by court martial on 28 November 1865 and was sentenced to reduction to the ranks, imprisonment until 22 January 1866 and loss of 6 years and 8 months service towards his good conduct pay (and medal) and pension. Washington married Elizabeth Connell at Auckland on 14 April 1866, suggesting that he had met her whilst AWOL. He left New Zealand on 14 October 1866 and accompanied his Regiment to Australia where he remained in service until March 1870. On 1 March 1870 Private Washington sought transfer to the 2nd Battalion 18th Royal Irish Regiment (who were also in Australia ex New Zealand). This was granted and he re-engaged at Hobart Town, Australia for a further period of 10 years service. The War Office also restored the good conduct pay lost as a result of his prior desertion during his service in New Zealand. The Regiment left for England on 19 August 1870. Private Washington remained with the 2nd Battalion 18th Royal Irish Regiment until his final discharge on 3 January 1881. Although Washington earned four good conduct badges he was not awarded a Long Service and Good Conduct Medal on account of his desertion. At the time of his discharge he had served 20 years and 358 days.

New Zealand Medal, undated. 4275 Sergt C Addington 50th
 Q.O.R. Engraved in style to men discharged in Australia.

$850

Ex P Horne (Christchurch) 1998.

Addington was serving in Colombo as a Private prior to being sent to New Zealand. He was on shore from 1 October 1860 to 30 June 1861 and is noted as being in the Regimental Hospital for 49 days. Addington is listed as Sergeant on a record of 1 April 1865. He was subsequently based at Kakarama and also Wanganui during his service in New Zealand. He served with the "Left Wing" of the Regiment. He left Auckland bound for Sydney on the last week on June 1867. He re-engaged with the 50th Regiment on 13 September 1867, with the designation of Musketry Instructor. Addington was still serving with the Regiment the following year.

This medal is engraved in a recognised Colonial issue style and was probably issued to Addington in the 1870s, possibly from Australia.

Ex S Baldwin (Auckland) 1998.

William Whelan was born in Johnstown and enlisted in the 57th Regiment of Foot on 6 June 1854. He served with the 57th Regiment in the Crimean War and later in India. It was while serving in India that he was sent to New Zealand. His detachment of the 57th Regiment left Bombay on the "Star Queen" on 23 November 1860 and arrived at New Plymouth on 23 January 1861. Private Whelan served throughout New Zealand before taking his discharge with gratuity at Auckland on 25 March 1867. He settled in Taranaki and was still a resident in 1903 when his name appeared in Lord Ranfurly's Roll of Defenders of the Empire.

Undated medals were awarded to men no longer with the Regiment with whom they had won the medal.

New Zealand Medal, undated. 737 David Orr, 57th Regt. Impressed. Very fine.

$900

Ex Baldwin (Auckland) 1997.

Private David Orr served in New Zealand from 1864 to 1865, seeing service on shore for one year and 4 months. He took his discharge before 1869. He was awarded an undated medal and appears on the New Zealand Medal Roll (WO100/18). Undated medals were awarded to men no longer serving the Regiment with whom they won the medal.

$2,000

Ex Glendinings (London) 1964, Liverpool Medals (Liverpool) 1986, Glendinings (London) 1988, Liverpool Medals 1996.

Henry Poke was born in St Michaels, Taunton, Somerset and enlisted in the 65th Foot on 11 April 1854 aged 19. He was posted to New Zealand almost immediately and served there for 10 years, 9 months. Private Poke took part in engagements in the New Plymouth/Taranaki and Waikato regions before returning to the United Kingdom in 1865. Poke served in the East Indies for a further three years however was medically discharged on 8 June 1874 (aged 39) as a result of his being unfit for further service. He had contracted chronic dysentery due to climatic changes whilst serving overseas. He also suffered from smallpox. His service record states that 'he suffers from great irregularity of the bowels and is reduced to a skeleton by continued dysentery.'

Private Poke served 19 years and 272 days of which 13 years and 9 months were served overseas. He never obtained a rank higher than private. He was awarded a New Zealand Medal with reverse dates 1860-65, one of 139 to the 65th Regiment. Probably a unique pair.

Ex I.S.Wright (Australia) 1996.

Peter Gregory enlisted in the 68th Regiment on 22 March 1858 and after service in Burma (no medal entitlement) arrived in New Zealand aboard Armenian on 23 January 1864. Private Gregory saw active service at Gate Pa and Te Ranga on 29 April 1864 and later at Te Ranga in June of that year. He purchased his discharge from the 68th Regiment at Otahuhu Camp, Auckland on 10 March 1866. He settled in Auckland and in later life became a resident of Ranfurly War Veteran's Home in Mount Eden. He died at the Home on 28 April 1914 (almost 50 years to the day after Gate Pa) aged 75 and is buried at the Home's cemetery plot at Waikaraka Park Cemetery, Onehunga. Gregory's name appears on Ranfurly's Roll of 'Defenders of the Empire' 1902 and confirms this as his sole medal entitlement. He was awarded an undated medal. Undated medals were awarded to men no longer serving with the Regiment with whom they had won the medal.

New Zealand Medal 1863-1865. 636 Thos Fielder 70th Regt. Impressed. Very fine.

$1,500

Ex Baldwin's (London) 1955, Dixon's (Yorkshire) 1996.

Thomas Fielder served in New Zealand from 1863 to 1866. He took part in the engagements at Koheroa, Rangiriri and Orakau. He was also part of a small force sent to relieve colonial troops when the stockade's church at Pukekohe East was attacked on 14 September 1863. This is considered by historians to be 'New Zealand's Rorke's Drift'. Private Fielder left New Zealand with his regiment in January 1866. He was awarded a medal dated 1863-65 and his name appears on the New Zealand Medal roll WO100/18.

He embarked for New Zealand from Calcutta aboard Daniel Rudkin on 23 February 1861, arriving at Auckland on 13 May 1861. Riordan saw active service in New Zealand from 1863 to 1865 and took his discharge (upon payment) at Auckland on 31 December 1865. Patrick Riordan died at Auckland on 20 September 1881. He was awarded an undated medal and his name appears on the New Zealand Medal Roll WO100/18.

Undated medals were awarded to men no longer serving with the Regiment with whom they had won the medal.

Medals to British Corps including one of four medals issued to Chaplains.

New Zealand Medal, undated. Chaplain to the Forces John A Bayley BA. Impressed. Post nominal 'BA' may be officially corrected from 'MA', very fine.

$3,750

Ex Baldwin's London 1955, Dixon's Yorkshire, Lascelles Collection (Auckland) 1996.

Four New Zealand Medals were awarded to Chaplains for the New Zealand wars. Chaplains' functions included tending to wounded and officiating at burial ceremonies. John Arden Bayley was born on 21 March 1821. After completing a Bachelor of Arts he joined the Army Chaplain's Department on 1 January 1861. He held the rank of Chaplain 4th Class which equates to Army Captain. Bayley left Gravesend for New Zealand aboard Silver Eagle in December 1863 and arrived in Auckland on 3 March 1864. Bayley's service in New Zealand was generally restricted to the Auckland and Waikato theatres and almost certainly included the Battle of Orakau. He returned to England in 1866 and was promoted to Chaplain 3rd Class (Major) on 1 January 1871. Reverend Bayley saw no further overseas service and was further promoted to the rank of Chaplain 2nd Class (Lieutenant Colonel) on 1 January 1876. Bayley was a career military chaplain and served throughout various bases and posts in England. Whilst in military service he completed a Master of Arts degree. On 1 January 1881 Reverend Bayley was promoted to Chaplain 1st Class (Colonel). This is the highest rank a member of the Army Chaplain's Department can attain. He retired on 21 March 1887, having served 26 years.

With research and 'Men of Faith and Courage, the Official History of the NZ Chaplains', in which Bayley is mentioned.

New Zealand Medal 1864-66. 2438 Gunr John Turner 2nd Brigade RA. Impressed. Very fine.

$1,500

Ex Lovell Collection (UK) 1975, Sotheby's (London) 1977, Marshall Collection (UK) 1996.

John Turner arrived in New Zealand on 29 January 1864. He participated in engagements at Gate Pa (29 April 1864) and Te Ranga (21 June 1864) on the East Coast of New Zealand, in and around Tauranga. Gunner Turner returned to England on 14 November 1866 and took discharge from the Royal Artillery in the early 1870s. He was awarded this medal on 24 February 1870.

With details of service and copy roll entries.

Medals to the Army Hospital Corps are the rarest of all Corps issues for the New Zealand wars. Of the approximately 60 issued less than six are known. The Army Hospital Corps was sent to New Zealand from 1861. Detachments were based at Auckland but then seconded to Infantry Regiments. They also manned the Military Hospitals established at Auckland, New Plymouth, Napier and Wanganui as well as smaller facilities at the front, for example Tauranga after Gate Pa. The New Zealand Wars were the first conflicts where wounded from various regiments were treated at one facility. Prior to this soldiers were cared for by their own Regiment's medical personnel.

Private Speck served in New Zealand with the Army Hospital Corps from 1862 to 1867. He was attached to the 12th Regiment of Foot in the Waikato and was responsible for the military hospital established at Queen's Redoubt, Pokeno. He also served with General Cameron's Headquarters at Drury. Private Speck took his discharge in New Zealand on 27 February 1867.

New Zealand Medal, undated. 3027 J R Connors Military Train. Impressed. Good very fine.

$1,150

Ex Dixon's (Yorkshire) 1996.

The Military Train were brought to New Zealand to assist the Commissariat Transport Corps in the transportation of military stores and provisions however proved to be such skilled horsemen that they were engaged against the Maori as a cavalry force. They had served in a similar function during the Indian Mutiny in 1857. Their most noted action as a Cavalry force was at Nukumaru in January 1865. The British Forces did not have any formal cavalry regiments serving in New Zealand.

John Connors served in New Zealand from 1864 to 1867. He was based mainly in the Wanganui and Waikato areas. Private Connors appears to have been discharged shortly after his return to England. He was awarded a New Zealand Medal with an undated reverse, one of 62 such medals awarded to the Military Train.

Undated medals were awarded to men no longer serving with the Regiment.

Ex DNW (London) June 1997.

Francis Hugh Armstrong was born in 1840 and commissioned as Deputy Assistant Commissary General in February 1861. He saw service in the Commissariat Department in New Zealand and was based around the Auckland area. He did spend a short period of time in Taranaki and it was there, on 25 July 1866, that he married 17 year old Ellen Anne Shuttleworth. Armstrong himself was 26 at the time. Following his return to England Armstrong remained in the Commissariat Department. On 30 January 1880, whilst serving in Cyprus, he was promoted to the rank of Assistant Commissary General in the Transport Department Staff. Armstrong saw active service with the Commissariat and Transport Staff during the Egypt Campaign of 1882 and later during the Suakin Campaign (also Egypt) in March, April and May 1885. He was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel in the Army Service Corps on 11 December 1888 and likely spent the remainder of his career based at Gosport. He retired in 1891 or 1892 having therefore served an impressive 30 years.

New Zealand Medal 1860-1861. 6072 Sapr Fredk Woodall Ryl Engrs. Impressed. Very fine.

Ex Payne Collection 1911 and mentioned in Payne's epic publication.

New Zealand Medals to the RE are excessively rare, especially an early date such as this. Sapper Woodall served in the Taranaki Campaign of 1860-1861. He saw action at Kaihihi on 10 & 11 October 1860, at Mahoetahi on 6 November 1860 and in the Waitara from December 1860 to March 1861. Woodall took part in the attack on Number 3 Redoubt at Waitara on 23 January 1861.

The New Zealand Medal dated 1860-61 is exceedingly rare to non-Naval recipients

Medals to the Royal Navy including two of twenty-nine medals to HMS Cordelia and one medal to a soldier discharged at Sydney.

New Zealand Medal, undated. E Barnes AB HMS ESK. Impressed. Very fine.

Ex Captain Douglas-Morris Collection 1996, DNW (London) 1997.

Royal Navy recipients are considered scarce. The New Zealand Medal was only awarded to men who went ashore as part of a Naval Shore Party (in action) and thus the medals were only awarded to a small percentage of ship crew.

Edward Barnes was born in Paddington, London on 18 January 1840 and entered the Royal Navy as a Boy 1st Class aboard HMS Excellent on 16 January 1857. He was drafted to HMS Racoon as an Ordinary Seaman in April 1858 and subsequently to HMS Asia in January 1862. He transferred to HMS Esk on 15 April 1863 and was later promoted to the rank of Able Seaman in September 1864. Serving aboard Esk in New Zealand he took part in the engagement at Te Awamutu and later at Gate Pa and Te Ranga in 1864. As an Able Seaman aboard HMS Challenger he took his discharge at Sydney, Australia on 27 January 1867 at the end of his first ten year engagement. He appears to have settled in Australia and was awarded a medal belatedly on 21 December 1890. He was subsequently awarded a replacement medal on 26 July 1905. The impressing style on this medal implies it is the original award.

Ex Glendinings September 1987, Corbett Collection 1993, Mackrell Collection 1996, Baldwin's 1996.

This is a unique combination of medals to HMS Cordelia and probably to the Royal Navy (including all clasps on the Crimea Medal and 1860-61 dated New Zealand Medal) HMS Cordelia was a steam corvette serving in New Zealand from 1860 to 1861. A number of her crew took part in the action at Materikirike on 29 December 1860 and smaller skirmishes in the Taranaki area in 1861. There were 29 New Zealand War Medals awarded to men of HMS Cordelia (4 to officers, 16 to naval ratings and 9 to Royal Marines, of which 2 were Royal Marine Artillery).

Robert Carron was born at Plymouth, Devon on 13 May 1827 and enlisted in the Royal Navy on 12 September 1847. He subsequently served on board Her Majesty's Ships Acteon, Caledonia, Vengeance, Pembroke, Excellent, Edinburgh, Cambridge, Cordelia, Satellite, Indus, Phoebe and Impregnable. He saw service in the Baltic and later in the Crimea War. He served in a shore party capacity in the Crimea, taking part in the engagements at Balaklava, Inkermann and Sebastopol. He also served as part of a Naval shore party in New Zealand in the Waitara and New Plymouth areas in 1860 to 1861, taking part in the engagement at Waireka in March 1860. Carron was invalided from New Zealand on 18 May 1861. Captain of the After Guard Robert Carron held various ranks including Ordinary Seaman 2nd Class, Able Seaman, Boatswain's Mate and Captain, his final rank. He was awarded three Good Conduct Badges but not awarded the Long Service and Good Conduct Medal as while he had served a total of 26 years 28 days, his service had not been continuous. This was due to his signing for two ten year periods and then a further period until pensioned. He took his discharge to shore on 18 July 1871. He was awarded a medal dated 1860-61 on 11 March 1871.

With copy of service record.

New Zealand Medal, undated. J Billings Corpl RMA HMS Corelia 1860-61. Engraved. Extremely fine.

$1,700

Ex Captain Douglas-Morris Collection 1996.

An insufficient number of medals were struck by the Royal Mint with dates '1860-61', the shortfall being overcome in a few cases by issuing surplus medals with the date '1860'. Those officers and men who took part in the earlier campaigns were, after 1873, issued with a medal with an undated reverse with, in a number of cases, the date '1860-61', being added to the impressed or engraved edge details. HMS Cordelia was a steam corvette served in New Zealand from 1860 to 1861. A number of her men took part in the action at Materikirike on 29 December 1860 and smaller skirmishes in the Taranaki area in 1861. There were 29 New Zealand War Medals awarded to men of HMS Cordelia (4 to officers, 16 to naval ratings and 9 to Royal Marines, of which 2 were Royal Marine Artillery). This medal is the senior issue to the RMA for the ship.

Joseph Billings was born at Hinkley, Leicester on 31 January 1829 and enlisted in the Royal Marine Artillery in 1847. He was posted to HMS Cordelia as a Corporal, Royal Marine Artillery on 17 April 1857. He served in New Zealand with the Naval Brigade and was ashore with men of Cordelia and Pelorus during the period 20 April 1860 to 28 May 1860, and participated in the engagement at Waireka, near New Plymouth in 1860. He was discharged from HMS Cordelia to Plymouth Headquarters on 2 April 1862. This is possibly a unique undated medal to HMS Cordelia and one of just two medals to men of the Royal Marine Artillery from HMS Cordelia. Of these two men, Corporal Billings was the most senior. He was awarded an undated medal on 17 November 1876 with dates additionally engraved on the rim after the naming.

A medallic rarity – A New Zealand Medal with unrecorded reverse dates.

New Zealand Medal 1846-1866. Unnamed. Extremely fine, possibly unique.

$1,500

Ex Oldham (Auckland) 1996.

The date 1846-66 is not known to have been issued. It is known that just one medal (dated 1846-65) with reverse dates spanning both wars was issued (this was to a Col McGregor of the 65th Regt and is now in the Napier Museum). This medal was probably made as an example by the Royal Mint, perhaps for issue, but was never used given that the dates shown were never claimed. It is possible the medal was struck to test the reverse dies for the medal and was not intended to have survived. The medal is considered unique.

Dr. Agnes Bennett, B.Sc (Sydney) M.D. (Edinburgh), proceeded overseas on the outbreak of the Great war. She enlisted as a medical officer of the New Zealand Expeditionary Force in Egypt and remained there until the first stationary hospital was established at Pont de Koubeh. Subsequently she joined the district medical service of the English army in Egypt, working in infectious diseases hospitals until the work ceased at Cairo; she then proceeded to England, and shortly afterwards went out to Serbia in charge of one of the units of Scottish Women's hospitals. Dr. Bennet was decorated for distinguished services with the Royal Red Cross of Serbia, and Third order of St. Sava of Serbia. The crown Prince of Serbia (afterwards King Alexander, who was assassinated at Marseilles) was a frequent visitor to the hospital. Dr. Bennett was invalided from this hospital, and afterwards acted as medical officer at Netley unit until the end of the war.

With a Navy League Special Service Medal, named to Dr Agnes Bennet OBE, Six Scottish Medical Shoulder Charges, British Medical Association 1931 badges (2), P.A.H. trained Nurses reunion Medal, various miscellaneous badges (6).
