This note is the only one of its type ever to have been sold at auction. It was first offered for sale in July 1998 by a reputable European vendor as lot 4877 in Noble Numismatics' Sale 58, when it realised $86,000. In November 1998 the note, together with a number of other Australian specimen notes from the same source, were seized by the Federal Police, acting on information from the Reserve Bank of Australia who claimed ownership of the notes. The bank's claim was disputed, and proceedings were commenced in the Supreme Court of New South Wales for return of the notes. The proceedings were subsequently settled by deed of settlement, which stated 'the Reserve Bank has relinquished its claim in respect of certain bank notes... and makes no claim to title in respect of those notes'. The notes were then returned by the Federal Police.

A Complete Set of Polymer Specimen Banknotes

The following six lots were presented to Dr Patricia Lahy AM, by The Reserve Bank of Australia.

Dr Lahy was born in 1928. She attended North Sydney Girls' High School and the Sydney Teachers College. After some years teaching in secondary schools and teachers colleges, she enrolled as a student at the University of Sydney, where she graduated in 1963 with honours in psychology. She subsequently joined the staff of the University as a Tutor in Psychology, and rose to the rank of Senior Lecturer. In 1975 she was awarded a doctorate by Queen's University, Belfast, for research on pattern recognition. In 1979 she was elected dean of the Faculty of Arts at the University of Sydney, and her career shifted into senior administration. Lahy served on numerous boards and committees, and in 1989 became a member of the first board of governors at the University of Western Sydney.

During her period in administration, Dr Lahy maintained an active interest in her discipline, and in particular an interest in pattern recognition, and this led her to serve for many years on the Reserve Bank committee for the design of new bank notes. It was in recognition of her service on this committee that she was presented with the specimen notes included in this sale. Dr. Lahy died in 2004.
