ROMAN IMPERIAL COINS

4043*

Octavian (later Augustus), (27 B.C. - A.D. 14), silver denarius, moving with Octavian at an Italian or Cisalpine Gaul mint, issued Spring 43 B.C., (3.856 grams), obv. Venus head to right, rev. trophy of Gallic arms and chariot, CAESAR IMP, (S.-, Cr.482/1, Syd, 1016, RSC Julius Caesar 15, Babelon Julia 13). Good very fine with old cabinet patina, a small banker's stamp and a small striking crack, extremely rare.

$8,000

In 1978 when R.Loosley revised Roman Silver Coins Vol 1 with David Sear they followed previous writers in attributing this coin to Julius Caesar. Twenty years' later in David Sear's acclaimed "The History and Coinage of the Roman Emperors 49 - 27 BC" he reattributed this denarius (130) to the first issue of Octavian. In his valuation guide he gives this coin 8000 pounds sterling (EF) due to its rarity. Sydenham gave it rarity 9 (exceedingly rare). It was first bought by Seaby's in London from a deceased estate in England in the mid 1970s.

Octavian (later Augustus), (30-29 B.C.), silver denarius (3.308 grams). Italian (Rome?) mint. obv. [IM]P, head of youthful Mars right, wearing slight beard and crested Corinthian helmet, rev. CAESAR around upper rim of circular shield, the central boss ornamented with a star, lying on top of a sword and spear in saltire. (S.-, RIC I 274; CRI 428; RSC 44; BMCRE 644-5 = BMCR Rome 4368-9; BN 87-90). About fine and rare.

$150

With this issue there was a dramatic decline in the output of coinage in Italy until the constitutional settlement in January of 27 BC. Over the three year period, between the autumn of 32 BC and the summer of 29 BC, Octavian had met the expenses of the Actian campaign, the conquest of Egypt, and the settlement of the legionary veterans. Octavian was now recognized as the sole authority.

4045

The type refers to a special favour shown to Carthage, capital of Severus' native province. It appears to be connected with the city's water supply (perhaps a new aqueduct). The principal female deity of Carthage was known to the Romans as Dea Caelestis, "Celestial goddess". Although not named on the coin, there can be little doubt that she is the figure shown riding on the lion.

The most widely used Christogram is the four-letter abbreviation ICXC - a traditional abbreviation of the Greek words for "Jesus Christ". One of the oldest Christograms used is the Chi-Rho or Labarum. It consists of the superimposed Greek letters Chi and Rho which are the first two letters of christ in Greek. Technically, the word labarum is Latin for a standard with a little flag hanging on it and used by the army. A Christogram was added to the flag as an image of the Greek letters Chi Rho, in the late Roman period. So Christogram and labarum are not originally synonyms.

The Jalayrids ruled in part of Iran from A.D. 1335-1432 and maintained separate coinage for their territories in the northwest, monetarily tied to Tabriz and in Iraq (including Khuzistan), where the Baghdad currency was used. At times the Jalayrid rulers were recognised in parts of the Muzaffarid lands (which used the Shirazi currency). Jalayrid coins struck in the Shirazi currency zone conform to the Shirazi weight standards. The Jalayrids were driven out by Timur in 1393, but staged a brief recovery, mainly in southern Iraq and Khuzistan after his death in 1404.

This is the first type coin struck by the Guptas, and clearly derived its inspiration from the Kushan type of Kanishka II and successors. The tridents are transformed into a plain standard and the Garuda-standard. Ardoksho enthroned becomes Lakshmi enthroned, whose adjuncts, the noose and cornucopiae identify her image. The engraver in most Gupta coins always gave the obverse his greatest attention with his skill, for both its composition and style, but the reverse was less important and generally of poorer style.

Kanishka II struck two types of staters, one as above probably from Kabul mint, the other like the issue of Vasu Deva III coinage probably from Taxila. They all appear with additional letters in various parts of the obverse field. Under Kanishka II the representation of the king's dress changed. Earlier issues show a military chain mail coat but from this ruler it becomes a loose fitting robe with a short cut in the front. This development has been regarded as reflecting the assimilation of the Kushan with Indian culture.
