(2) Application under direction of Colonel Grose, commanding the New South Wales Corps, requesting Field Marshall His Royal Highness The Duke of York to move the King to grant such commission of appointment as Ensign to Mr Hugh Piper, dated 24th March 1799.

(3) Documents relating to purchase of Lieutenancy of Hugh Piper upon his promotion to Captain and many other documents relating to purchase of Captaincy including one under direction of Lieut General Grose to Lieut Colonel Torrens requesting he lay before Field Marshall His Royal Highness The Commander in Chief the recommendations for promotion of Lieut Piper to be Captain Piper purchasing the commission for £950 from Captain Winkworth Tonge, who is retiring, and taking command of his Company in the 102nd Regt, dated 13th June 1811.

Hugh Piper was born at Ayrshire, Scotland on 28 May 1784. He entered the Army at the age of 14 years 10 months when he purchased a commission as an Ensign with the New South Wales Corps (102nd Foot) on 29 March 1799. In doing so he was following in the footsteps of his brother, Ensign John Piper of the New South Wales Corps, who arrived at Sydney in 1792 aboard the Pitt and at his own request was sent to Norfolk Island in 1793, promoted to Lieutenant in 1795 and returned to the mainland and was then on leave 1797-1799. In 1800 he was given the local rank of Captain and became commandant of Norfolk Island in September 1804 being promoted to Captain in 1806. He returned to Sydney in 1810 but while on leave in England in 1811 he resigned his commission. In 1813 he was given the appointment of Naval Officer in Sydney and returned to take up his role in February 1814. A close family friend of John MacArthur, he was appointed a magistrate in 1819, became Chairman of Directors of the Bank of New South Wales in 1825 and was President of Scots Church Committee. He acquired land by grant or purchase at Eliza Point (renamed after John Piper and now Point Piper), Vaucluse, Woollahra, Rose Bay, Petersham, Neutral Bay, Bathurst, Van Diemen's Land and in George Street, Sydney. He also owned Vaucluse House.

Hugh Piper's service record is as follows, (Rank) Ensign, New South Wales Corps (102nd Foot), 29 March 1799 (by purchase); Lieutenant, New South Wales Corps (102nd Foot), 1806 (without purchase) (Caledonian Mercury 24 November 1806: War Office, Nov.18, - New South Wales Corps - Brevet Major George Johnston to be Major, without purchase, Lieut. John Piper to be Captain of a company, vice Johnston, Ensign Hugh Piper to be Lieutenant, vice J.Piper, Ensign William Lawson to be Lieutenant.); Captain, 102nd Foot, 13 June 1811 (by purchase); Captain, 102nd Foot, 13 June 1811 (by purchase); Captain, 38th Regt, 5 April, 1820 (transfer); Major, 38th Regt, 10 June 1828 (without purchase); Lieutenant Colonel, 38th Regt, 27 May 1837 (without purchase), Commanding Officer of 38th Regt; Retired by sale of commission 6 August 1840; (Service abroad) 1799-1800 Van Diemen's Land; 1800-1811 New South Wales; 1811-1818 Guernsey, Bermuda, Moose Island (an island in Maine, USA seized by the British in the War of 1812), St Andrew's, New Brunswick, St John's (now Prince Edward Island), Halifax, Nova Scotia; 1818-1820 England; 1820-1828 Cape of Good Hope, Bengal and Ava (Burma); 1828-1836 Bengal.

During Hugh Piper's Army career some of the highlights were;

A member of the 'Lt Col William Paterson party' that sailed with H.M. Buffalo together with the armed tender, Lady Nelson, the Francis and Integrity arriving in November 1804 to Van Diemen's Land to establish a settlement at Port Dalrymple. This was a strategic move to secure a British interest in Bass Strait and also create another area to accommodate settlers removed from Norfolk Island. Thus York Town was established and this was the first declared permanent settlement in the north of Tasmania. From there, on 28 November, Paterson embarked on the Lady Nelson together with Ensign Hugh Piper, Mr Jacob Mountgarrett, a corporal and five soldiers and proceeded up the Tamar River to evaluate and explore the country to the north-west of Port Dalrymple. As a result of this expedition, various areas are named after Hugh Piper, namely Piper's Brook, Piper's River, Piper's Head, Piper's River Road and the town of Piper's River. There was also a location called Piper's Hut which is recorded on 1830, January 1 as the site of the killing of William Smith by natives near River Ouse, Piper's Hut at Bark Hut Plains.

Served as Brigade Major in the American campaign in 1813 under Sir Sidney Beckwith, the campaign in which there were battles at Chesapeake Bay, Craney Island and Hampton, Virginia which was captured; as Captain of the Light Company at the capture of Moose Island under Colonel Pilkington; as Captain and Deputy Adjutant General to the Bengal Force under Major General Sir A.Campbell during the campaign in Ava of 1824-25 and 1826.

In the Colonial Times and Tasmanian Advertiser, Friday 2 September 1825, p2 there is a report on the 'Burmese War in India', in part this states, 'The first official accounts of the progress of hostilities, are contained in dispatches from Brigadier-General Sir A.Campbell to George Swinton, Esq., Secretary to Government at Bengal; published on 23rd December last.... It appears that a Prince of the Burmese, named Maha Bundoola, appeared in front of the British position on the 1st of December, with a force of 60,000 men, well armed and appointed; including a numerous artillery, and a powerful cavalry; Sir Archibald's stile (sic) of writing may be understood from the following extract, which is a fair specimen of the whole. 'He says, their haughty leader had insolently declared his intention of leading us in captive chains, to grace the triumph of the golden monarch. But it has pleased God to expose the vanity of his idle threats, and crown the heroic efforts of my gallant little army with a most complete and signal victory.' The Brigadier-General then proceeds to give in detail the particulars of the first action; in which the 13th (King's) Foot, the 18th Madras Infantry, and two companies of the 38th (King's), under Captain Hugh Piper, (brother of Captain Piper, the Naval Officer at Sydney) were much distinguished.'

Hugh Piper was married on 15 May 1816 at St John's, New Brunswick. His wife bore eleven children, namely, William Donald 6/2/1817 St John's, New Brunswick; Margaret Isabella, 12/8/18 St John's, New Brunswick; John Sweedland 3/2/1840 Isle of Wight (died); John 21/2/1821 Cape of Good Hope; David Blair 27/11/1822 Berhompore, East India; Isabella 9/1/1824 Berhompore, East India (died); Hugh 22/1/1827 Chinsurah, East India (died); David Blair 28/5/1828 Canonpore, East India; Sarah 10/7/1829 Gharapore, East India; Isabella 18/3/1831 Gharapore, East India; Francis Rulate Skipton 12/1/1834 Berhompore, East India. Lieutenant Colonel Hugh Piper died on 20 November 1855 at the Island of Jersey, England.

CIE to Douglas Donald Esq., Commandant of the Border Military Police and Samana Rifles, Kohat: LG Supplement 30/12/1903, No.27511.

CSI to Douglas Donald Esq., CIE, on special duty as Political Officer for Orakzais, North West Frontier: LG Supplement 1/1/1921, p5.

CBE: Gazetted 5/4/1921 (dated 3/8/1920): 'Honours for operations in Afghanistan.'

Gazette of India 29/7/1919: 'Rendered valuable services in India in connection with the war.'

Together with various research papers including a complete transcript of service record, 1865-1922, and a copy of pages from the book 'The Life of General Dyer' by Ian Colvin, published in 1929, in which Douglas Donald is mentioned throughout p121 - 124 and 158.

Douglas Donald was born on 19 November 1865 at Hashiapore, Punjab, the son of A.J.S.Donald of the Punjab Provincial Civil Service. He was educated at Bishop Cotton School, Simla. He joined the Punjab Police Force at Amballa, Punjab in 1888 and in 1894 was appointed Political Assistant of the Border Military Police. In 1895 he married Miss Johnson. In 1899 he was appointed Commandant of the Border Military Police and Samana Rifles and then in 1906 he was appointed Superintendent of Police and by 1914 was Deputy Inspector General of Police.

Douglas Donald gained valuable experience and understanding of the Pathan tribesmen during the tumultuous period of the 1890s which culminated in the Tirah Campaign. Thus, when times became calmer and as Commandant of the Border Military Police and the Samana Rifles, he was able to give long and notable service to the Indian Government by re-establishing and maintaining peaceful relations with many sections of the powerful Orakzai clan. He understood the Pathan nature which he used instinctively; he knew of their tribal feuds, their fierce vendettas, and he also knew the tribal language and lore as well as the tribesmen themselves. With these attributes he was able to succeed in maintaining a form of order because the tribesman and Government alike had confidence that Douglas Donald would do his best for them.

In the Samana Campaign of 1891 Mr D.Donald was Political Officer on the Staff of Brigadier General Sir W.S.A. Lockhart, KCB, CSI, Commanding. He was mentioned in dispatches by Lockhart. In the London Gazette of 15 September 1891, p4892, the published account from Lockhart states as part of item 25, 'Messrs Spencer and Donald have also assisted Major Leigh, and have in all respects upheld the good opinion I formed of them during the operations at the beginning of the present year.'

Mr D.Donald was mentioned in dispatches again for the later Samana Campaign in 1897. In the London Gazette of 11 February 1898, p864, Major-General A.G.Yeatman-Biggs CB, Commanding the Kurrum-Kohat Force stated, 'The Commandant of the Border Militia Police, Mr D.Donald, informed me that a large number of the enemy were making for the Darband Kotal, and the officer commanding the 1-2nd Gurkhas reported to me (7p. m.) that seven standards and a considerable number were retracing their steps up the valley.' He was also mentioned in the same Gazette entry on p865, 'The guns from Haugu were accompanied by Mr. D.Donald, who knows the country well, and he was able to show them a position from which they could fire a few rounds to encourage the garrison, and Major Middleton, commanding the 3rd Bengal Cavalry, sent through by helio., just before sunset, a message to assure the garrison that they would be relieved by mid-day on the 14th.' Donald received a third mention as follows, 'On the 3rd September a bhisti from Dhar was murdered by the enemy, and his three mules stolen. Mr D.Donald, Commandant of the Border Police, proceeded to Dhar to make inquiries into the circumstances, and he and his escort were fired on.'

Douglas Donald retired in 1922 and he died on 21 October 1953.

William Vesey Harrel was the son of Sir David Harrel GCB, GBE, KCVO, PC (Ire), appointed Chief Commissioner of the Dublin Metropolitan Police in 1883 and then Under-Secretary for Ireland in 1893 until 1902 when he retired due to ill health. He did however sit on a number of tribunals and voluntary bodies including service as Chairman of the Interim Court of Arbitration on industrial matters from 1918-1919. Thus, his son William was well connected. On 9 April 1886 at the age of 19, and with no previous employment, he entered the Royal Irish Constabulary as a Cadet, advanced to 3rd District Inspector on 24 May 1886 and 2nd District Inspector on 8 February 1890. Some of his postings include;- appointed to the Divisional Commissioner's Staff C.O. Mullingar 20 August 1893; appointed Crime Special Office Dundalk from 1 June 1895; appointed Private Secretary to the Inspector General 9 September 1897; appointed Inspector of Prisons in Ireland from 29 September 1898. As well, Harrel was favorably mentioned in records on 25 August 1887 for good police service on Eviction Duty and also on 9 July 1890 for service in connection with the Dowra murder case.

In January 1902 William Harrel was appointed Assistant Commissioner of the Dublin Metropolitan Police operating out of Dublin Castle. In this role he was one of the principal participants in the confrontation with about eight hundred Irish Volunteers armed with illegal weapons landed at 12.30pm at Howth on 26 July 1914 and marching towards Dublin. The events following the landing resulted in troops from the King's Own Scottish Borderers being called out as well as additional constables from the Royal Irish Constabulary.

At about 4.30pm, Assistant Commissioner Harrel, together with officers from the Dublin Metropolitan Police, intercepted the marchers at Malahide Road whereupon the leaders of the Volunteers had a parley with the Assistant Commissioner who demanded that they give up their rifles. They refused and so they were informed that the military were on hand, armed and prepared to fire if need be. In his evidence to the Royal Commission, Serjeant Sullivan stated, 'He (Captain Cobden of KOSB) gave an order to his men to load; and accordingly at that point the rifles of one hundred of the King's Own Scottish Borderers were loaded. And when we come to a later period you will find that they were never unloaded until they reached the barracks at a much later hour in the evening; and still more regrettable, the senior officer who subsequently took command over the hundred men, marched them through the city with loaded rifles.

The Volunteers having refused to give up their rifles at Mr Harrel's summons, there was a scuffle of some kind at the bottom of the Malahide Road, first between the police and the Volunteers in a somewhat futile endeavour of a handful of police to disarm eight hundred men; and eventually the military, or part of them, engaged in the scuffle, and some bayonet wounds were inflicted on the Volunteers, so the order to fix bayonets must have been given prior to that event, because some Volunteers were wounded with the fixed bayonets of the military. Two revolver shots were fired, as I am instructed, not by the Volunteers, but from a group of bystanders behind, who I am unable to identify. I need not here say that these manoeuvres on a Sunday in that neighbourhood attracted a large number of people, because Dollymount and Clontarf are favourite resorts of the people on summer Sundays. And there was a large crowd behind the soldiers. From this group two revolver shots were fired, and two of His Majesty's soldiers were injured thereby. The net result of that scuffle - for it could hardly be described as anything else - was that nineteen rifles out of the eight hundred, were taken from the Volunteers. Their leaders were again in parley with the Assistant Commissioner, and while they were debating with him the propriety or the impropriety of the proceedings, the rear ranks of the Volunteers dispersed and disappeared, and the result was that when Mr Harrel closed the negotiations he found that the body of the Volunteers had completely disappeared from the neighbourhood along with their rifles, leaving behind them the two front ranks of unarmed men facing the police and the military.'

Then the Dublin police and Royal Irish Constabulary left and the army soon after marched back to barracks. During the march they were subjected to considerable jeering, hooting and scoffing by the crowd which followed them. Some missiles were thrown at them and on occasions the rear ranks made bayonet charges on the following crowd. This continued until they reached Bachelor's Walk and a full blown confrontation ensued which resulted in the death of three civilians, and about forty to fifty persons wounded between great and small but seriously wounded were thirty two persons.

The official inquest into the incident reported very adversely upon Assistant Commissioner Harrel's actions and led to the scapegoat suspensions of Harrel and Major Haig of the King's Own Scottish Borderers. The feeling against the KOSB in Dublin was very bitter and the battalion was confined strictly to barracks and subsequently they were transferred to the Western Front. For many years thereafter the Irish Nationalists referred to the battalion as the King's Own Scottish Butcherers.

In a report in the New Zealand newspaper, Hawera & Normanby Star, 28 July 1914 headed 'The Deplorable Dublin Incident. Mr Birrell's Statement, Assistant-Commissioner Of Police At Fault'. At a meeting of Nationalist in the London House of Commons presided over by Mr Redmond, Mr Birrell stated that 'Mr W.V. Harrel, Assistant Commissioner of Police, has requisitioned the military on his own responsibility. Mr Harrel had been suspended pending an enquiry. Mr Redmond said Harrel ought to be hanged...'

Another report in The New York Times, 2 October 1914 states, 'Orders given by police official responsible'. It then reports on the findings of the Royal Commission which found that the employment of the police and military was not in accordance with the law. The report further says that, Assistant Commissioner of Police Harrel was responsible for the calling out of the military and for the orders issued to the police.

On 4 April 1915 William Vesey Harrel was gazetted as Commander, RNVF and on 26 April posted 'Colleen' addl. for Intelligence Duties on the Staff of the Vice Admiral, Queenstown. He was awarded a CBE (Military) 'for valuable service on the Staff of the Commander in Chief, Queenstown.' He was demobilized from 1 November 1919.

In Harrel's application for superannuation, it states that he ceased duty with the Dublin Police on 19 November 1914 and that, 'Except as regards the events connected with the applicant's removal from Office to which reference is made in Irish Office letters of the 23rd October and 19th November, 1914, to the Treasury, I certify that Mr. William Vesey Harrel discharged his duties with diligence and fidelity to the satisfaction of the Head Officers of his Department' signed by Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant, Dublin Castle, 27 November 1914.

William Vesey Harrel died on 4 May 1956, aged 88, and is buried at Deansgrange Cemetery, Dublin, South West Section, Part one, N.138.

DFC: LG 17/11/1944, p5282, posn 2; CAG 23/11/1944, p2609, posn 65. Lane, Aubrey William, FO (Aus22873) RAAF, 462 (RAAF) Sqn.

Citation: One day in August, 1944, Flying Officer Lane was detailed to attack a synthetic oil plant at Homberg. Before the coast was reached the port outer engine failed but although fully aware of the risks involved, he flew on towards his target. In the target area the bomber sustained damage and a second engine was hit. Unable to identify his primary target this officer made a successful attack on a secondary objective. Flying Officer Lane has displayed great determination to achieve success. Flying Officer Lane was presented with the DFC by the Governor of Queensland at Government House, Brisbane on 30 July 1947.

Aubrey William (Chid) Lane, clerk, born 24Apr1919 at Toowoomba, Queensland; previous service with RAE 1939-1940; Enl.08Jul1940 at Brisbane; ACI 08Jul1940; LAC 01Oct1940; Corp (t) 01Dec1940; Sgt (T) 01Oct1941; AC 09Nov1941; LAC 28Feb1942; qualified for Flying Badge 14Oct1942; Sgt (T) 14Jan1943 (Pilot); Emb.05Mar1943 to UK; T/Sgt 14Jul1943 (A/Pilot); T/Sgt 31Dec1943 (Pilot); T/FSgt 16Jan1944 (Pilot); 16Jan1944 to Officer; served with 466, 462 Sqns RAAF and 96 Sqn RAF; Disch.21Dec1945 ex Air CSEA; Lane continued in service with the RAAF Interim Air Force post war.

In the book, Australia in the War of 1939-1945, Series III, Air - Vol IV, Air Power over Europe 1944-1945 by John Herington, details of the raid for which Lane received the DFC are as follows.

'No.4 Group was out again on 27th August for a repeat attack against Homberg-Meerbeck. The force of 243 aircraft was the largest yet committed by Bomber Command against a single oil objective. The raid was made in daylight, a revolutionary move soon to become standard practice, and, in addition to a heavy fighter escort, the bombers were accompanied by one Mosquito detailed to make an immediate bomb damage survey. From an Australian viewpoint the attack was also memorable as the first operation over Germany of the newly re-formed No.462 Squadron. Indeed, perhaps the most outstanding display of determination and airmanship arising from the raid was given by Flying Officer Lane of that squadron. The port - outer engine of his Halifax failed in the early stages of the outward journey, before the enemy coast had been crossed. Lane decided to continue even though he would have to fly his aircraft at a much lower level than the main force. Over Homberg the Halifax not only received special attention from the gun defences but was also in danger from bombs cascading from aircraft at higher altitudes. A second engine was disabled by gunfire and, as the primary target was at that time obscured, Lane dropped his bombs on docks on the east bank of the Rhine.'

Jordan was born in Ramsgate, Kent, the son and grandson of sea captains his father William Joseph Jordan was a member of the lifeboat crew which earned fame and exploits in the Goodwin Sands. Jordan joined the London Metropolitan Police and underwent training at Scotland Yard, afterwards being stationed at Limehouse in the East End of London. Jordan emigrated to New Zealand in 1904, initially working as a labourer and bush farming. He joined the Labour Party in 1907 as the first secretary of the Wellington branch of the Party. He enlisted in the First New Zealand Expeditionary Force in France in 1917. In March 1918, Jordan saw action for the first time, and suffered serious wounds in action two weeks later. Jordan served as New Zealand's High Commissioner to London from September 1936 to 1951. For much of this time, London was New Zealand's only diplomatic posting, and Jordan became prominent as New Zealand's official representative overseas. Jordan was actively involved as New Zealand's representative to the League of Nations. Jordan served as President of the League of Nations in 1938. Jordan was highly regarded during the War for his loyalty to New Zealand servicemen and women, and his care for soldiers. He remained a popular figure among the public in New Zealand. In 1949 with the Labour Party defeated from office, the incoming National Government decided to retain Jordan in his post until 1951. He was knighted in 1952.

Lt Fane Vernon was appointed 2 i/c of A Coy, 23 Bn on the eve of the Battle of Alamein. After dusk on the night of 23 October the 8th Army was busy organising into formations. At 8pm 23 Bn moved to its forming-up place. The men were addressed by Brig Kippenberger who told them they were privileged men to be participating in this first great Allied offensive. The men of the 23rd replied 'We won't let you down, Sir', 'The 23rd will do it, Sir'. The battalion stepped off from the start line at 9.30pm, ten minutes before the guns began counter-battery tasks. The battle began and the Allies engaged the Germans and Italians. B and C Companies were in the thick of it and twelve hours later, A Coy hooked up with them. A Coy had come up against strong opposition as there were more enemy posts on their front than elsewhere. They came up against a company strongpoint in and behind the first minefield. This caused a temporary hold up and in the attack on the machine gun posts the Coy OC Capt Pat Lynch headed the attack only to be hit by a full burst of machine gun fire and killed. The attack pressed on and the strongpoint was taken. The Coy 2 i/c, Lt Fane Vernon was severely wounded during the assault and he also died.

Together with research including small photos of Lt Vernon cut out from published articles and copy of some pages from a history book in which Lt Vernon is mentioned three times.

$2,500

Together with book titled, The New Zealanders at Gallipoli by Major Fred Waite D.S.O., N.Z.E., New Zealand Government 1919, hard cover, 330pp + fold out maps.

MM: Supplement to LG 11/10/1916 p9839; NZEF Orders (171) London 18.10.16.

Citation: 'This man showed conspicuous bravery on 8th August 1915, during the attack on Chunuk Bair he went out under heavy shrapnel, M.G. and rifle fire and removed an Artillery Ranging Flag. This flag had been used by our artillery in the attack but, owing to our advance it had become a danger to our own troops and was causing many casualties.'

The Battle of Chunuk Bair: The Wellington Battalion took the peak at Chunuk Bair on the morning of 8 August 1915 but they were then subjected to a relentless Turkish assault with fierce hand-to-hand trench combat. Without reinforcements they could not secure the position. Throughout 9 August other NZ soldiers hung grimly to Chunuk Bair but no reinforcements arrived. If they had then perhaps there would have been a different outcome for the Gallipoli campaign. The Australian war historian, Charles Bean, wrote of the Wellingtons, '...there came out only 70 unwounded or slightly wounded men ... they could only talk in whispers ... their eyes were sunken ... some broke down and cried.'

Private Christopher William Connell, age 23, motor mechanic of Wanganui; Enl.14Aug1914 at Wanganui; Emb.12Apr1915 for Dardanelles; awarded MM for Battle of Chunuk Bair at Gallipoli 08Aug1915; 03Jun1916 following a motor cycle accident he was admitted to hospital with fractured right clavicle and fractured base of skull; this resulted in deafness in right ear; the inability to sleep properly and constant headaches; RTNZ 03Sep1916; Disch.13May1917 as Medically Unfit due to wound received in action and injury sustained on active service; died 25Nov1918 from Influenza and complications.

New Zealand, postal history, Russell cover and letter, with a charge of 6d, fixed with crowned postmark, dated Aug 17, 1835 to addressee Gilbert Mair at Whangarei, from Charles Baker of Tolaga Bay, New Zealand. Very fine.

Gilbert Mair (Peterhead, Scotland, 23 May 1799 - Whangarei, 16 July 1857) was a sailor and a merchant trader who visited New Zealand for the first time when he was twenty, and lived there from 1824 till his death. He married Elizabeth Gilbert Puckey. They had twelve children. Among them were 'famous New Zealanders' like Captain Gilbert Mair and Major William Gilbert Mair. Gilbert Mair senior was 'present at the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi in 1840, and he and his family were acquainted with many of the noted men who visited the Bay of Islands'.

Reverend Charles Baker (1803 - 1875) was a lay minister and member of the Church Missionary Society (C.M.S.) in New Zealand in the early and middle 19th century, and one of the first Europeans to be fluent in the Maori language. He was born in Yorkshire, Great Britain, and was trained in agricultural and industrial pursuits. Upon the death of his first wife, he entered the C.M.S. College at Islington. With the second Mrs. Baker, and the daughter of the first marriage, he landed at the Bay of Islands on 9 June, 1828. He was stationed first at Kerikeri and then at Russell (Kororarika).

The building of the historic church in Russell was due to the efforts of Charles Baker, and was probably completed in late 1834, or early 1835. On Christmas Day, 1835, Charles Darwin (the eminent naturalist) and Captain Fitzroy (of H.M.S. Beagle and, later, successor to Governor Hobson) attended a service conducted by Mr. Baker and made donations towards the cost of the church.

Later, Mr Baker had built the first printing press in New Zealand. In the temporary absence of the Rev. H. Williams, Charles Baker played a not unimportant part in making the arrangements ashore for the proclamation of British sovereignty over New Zealand. Lieutenant-Governor Hobson requested him to have copies printed of an invitation to the chiefs to meet him, and arranged with him to send messengers to deliver them. He also sought permission to use the church on the occasion of the reading of the official documents relating to his appointment.

Archdeacon Williams, who initially was in sole charge of missionary work on the East Coast of the North Island, wrote on May 15th, 1843, that in August, 1842, it had been decided that Mr. C. Baker, who had been at Waikare, Bay of Islands, should be placed at Tolaga Bay. Whilst he was at Tolaga Bay his family of nine was increased on 11 April, 1843, by the birth of a son, Henry Williams, who might have been the first Caucasian boy born at Uawa, and on 3 September, 1844, by the arrival of another daughter, Charlotte Elizabeth, who might have been the first Caucasian girl born there. In the 1860s he returned to Auckland; Mr. Baker paid regular visits to the stockades, the gaol, and the hospital and to the hulks on which rebel prisoners were being detained. He died on 15 February, 1875.
